THE OPPORTUNITY FOR LGUs

Your LGU and Enterprise Hold the Key to Living Heritage.

"Weaving is not merely heritage — it is a foundation for inclusive and sustainable economic growth. LGUs that invest in weaving ecosystems build communities that are culturally rooted and economically resilient."

Why 2026? The Philippines holds the ASEAN Chairmanship. Winners showcased at the ASEAN Trade Show, Grand Ballroom, Okada Manila — before buyers and investors from 10 ASEAN nations, 10-12 November 2026.

Six Dimensions of Excellence.

Cultural Continuity and Innovation	20%	Documentation of outstanding indigenous weaving with strong cultural narratives and authentic attribution
Craft Documentation Excellence	20%	Technical mastery, natural fiber sourcing, regenerative production models promoting ethical commercialization
LGU Policy & Governance Ecosystem	20%	Strengthened weaving ecosystems through LGU enabling policies, GAD-funded programs, and enterprise development
Community Impact & Social Equity	20%	Responsible raw material sourcing; active skills transfer to younger generations through mentorship and training
Market Access & Value Chain	10%	Demonstrated value chain integration, market linkages, and fair benefit distribution across the community enterprise
Sustainable Livelihood	10%	Weaving traditions sustained for women & artisans using GAD resources; replication and adoption models in place

THE VALUE OF WHAT YOU CARRY

Your Weaving Tradition is Irreplaceable.

"I do not want our traditional arts and culture to be lost. The traditional arts of indigenous communities in the Philippines are as universal as they are local."

— Mercedes Zobel · Habi: Art and the Order of Nature · Ayala Museum Bahay Ugnayan

T'nalak · South Cotabato

Dream-woven by T'boli masters — each pattern a vision from ancestors. Never replicated. A UNESCO-recognized living tradition.

Piña · Aklan

Woven from pineapple leaf fiber — the queen of Philippine textiles. Painstakingly precious, worn by royalty across Asia.

Yakan · Zamboanga & Basilan

Among the most complex weavings in Southeast Asia — intricate geometric masterpieces of the Yakan people.

Inaul · Maguindanao

The royal textile of the Maguindanao — rich geometric patterning in silk, worn at royal ceremonies.

Inabel · Ilocos Norte & Sur

Ancient Ilocano geometric weaves — 400 years of Highland trade identity encoded in cotton.

FOR DESIGNERS & PRODUCERS

Bridge Between Loom and World.

Translate the sacred language of the loom into contemporary markets — ethically, beautifully, without erasure.

Co-create with attribution

Design collections honoring indigenous motifs with proper attribution and design credit to the originating community.

Amplify the artisan's story

Use fashion, film, and digital content to make every weave's origin visible to ASEAN buyers and global markets.

Access ASEAN matchmaking

Connect with regional supply chains and buyers at the ASEAN Trade Show, Grand Ballroom, Okada Manila — Nov 7-9.
